Excerpt: .imported in 1905, added to the duty thereon, amounted to $1,217,274. It is apparent that the heavy duty upon opium has had little effect in diminishing its consumption, and the problem of preventing the extension of the opium habit must be dealt with in ways other than through the customs. The figures given in the report of the Collector of Customs as to customs revenues do not agree with those hereinafter stated in connection with the budget for the fiscal year 1906, as based upon customs revenues for the fiscal year 1905. The distinction, however, is only apparent and not real. The Collector of Customs, according to law, reports the total revenues collected, while the budget is based upon the net revenues collected, after deducting reimbursable revenues, particularly those accruing upon hemp exported to and consumed in the United States. THE NEW INTERNAL-REVENUE LAW. The...
